It is understood that the Richmond and Petersburg Raiiroad Company will not further oppose the scheme of the Richmond. Manchester and Petersburg Raiiway Company to build a railroad between this city and Petersburg.

It is pretty generally believed that there will be a big fight between the Richmond and Manchester Railway and Improvement Company, and the Richmond, Manchester and Petersburg Company when the latter company attempts to lay its tracks on Seventh street. The former company claim that they have an exclusive franchise on that street and will fight the matter in the court.

Mayor Ellyson Tells About His Trip to New Orleans-Great Interest Maniterday morning after a visit of several days to New Orleans, where he went to make arrangements for the removal of the re-mains of Jefferson Davis from that city to Richmond. His trip, though rather hur-ried, was a very satisfactory one, and everywhere he went he found the people of the South ready to unite with him in doing honor to the great Confederate.

doing honor to the great Confederate.

In conversation with a representative of the Disparce last night Mayor Ellyson said: "I reached New Orleans on last Friday, where I went to perfect the arrangements in that city for the transfer of the remains of President Davis to Richmond. On my arrival I called upon General John Glynn, Jr., the major-general commanding the United Confederate Voterans of Louisians and also the general commanding the National Guard of the State. I was very cordially received by General Glynn, who had, in anticipation of my coming, arranged for a conference with the members of his staff for Friday afternoon.

FOUND IN PERFECT ACCORD. "In the mean time I was busy receiving "In the mean time I was only receiving calls from prominent Confederates in the city, whose acquaintance I had made on previous resists to New Orleans. I held three conferences with General Glynn and the members of his stad. We talked over the business in hand in nil of its details. I found them in hearty accordand sympathy with our desire to make the occasion worthy of Mr. Davis and the cause he represented.

ANXIOUS TO DO HIM HONOR.

"As I have before mentioned," added the Mayor, "I received a very earnest telegram from Augusta, containing a similar request. I told both Governors Jones and Northen that I was not prepared to give them any assurance in regard to these matters and that I would have to consult the wishes of Mrs. Davis. I have already written to her and have asked her to signify what would be pleasing to her, and informed her that if she so desired it I would come to New York to consult her in reference, to all the details. ANXIOUS TO DO HIM HONOR.

"Mr. Joseph Bryan, with whom I had the pleasure of riding from Atlanta and who is just returning from a trip to Mississippi, told me that the people in that State are very much interest ein the removal of Mr. Davis's remains and were prepared to unite in giving him such honors as became one of their foremost citizens. He said he felt as the time drew near that we should witness an increasing interest on the part of the southern States and a desire to honor the memory of Mr. Davis.

"I have been very much gratified at the southern States and a desire to monor the mem-ory of Mr. Davis.

"I have been very much gratified at the hearty and cortial co-operation which is mani-festing itself, and I am sure that the people of the southern States, and especially the veteran organizations, will be found ready most meer-fully to co-operate with us in any programme that we may arrange for the removal of Mr. Datie's remains. There seems to be a revival or the Confederate feeling, and our people are everywhere anxious to do whatever may be be-coming and proper to honor the memory of the President of the Confederate States.

Mr. White says that the reason he did not get the second prire was that the judges, after awarding the first upon a speed basis, gave the second upon a basis of excellency. He is very well satisfied, however, that he has made such record for the southern operators, and feels that while he did not capture the premiums offered he gave to the world an idea of what sort of telegraphers Richmond and the South produced. Mr. White reports that he was charmingly entertained while in the Metropolits. His sending in the Nev York contest was received perfectly by several typewriters.

The Judge Did Not Come.

There was no session of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday, as neither Judge Goff nor Judge Simonton came. The former may be here to-day, but it is very doubtful, as there is really nothing much to be done. The regular session of the court begins in May. This adjourned one was simply intended for the consideration of motions for rehearings in cases already decided.

Transmitting Sound to the Ear by th Use of a Simple Device

There is little doubt but what the treatment of during the past two Josas has considers it an easy triumph over this most distressing affliction.

While the idea of such an instrument is not strictly new, yet the restoration of such a large appropriate and abandoned cases by its use has proven it to be of vastly more importance than was at first supposed. A recent interview with the inventor of the instrument Mr. H. S. Wales, who lives in Bridgeport, Conn., discloses how the idea of such an ingestious instrument first occurred to him. It was learned that it was first suggested from the fact that most people who suffer from defective hearing near better in a noise or on a moving train, which is caused by the increased vibration of the ear. From this Mr. Wales said the was confident that he could invent a device which could be worn with confort by the patient, and which would focus the smaller wares of sound on the drum-head, thus increasing its vibration, and enabling the patient to hear ordinary conversation and public speaking. After many experiments the flust outcome of this happy thought has been the present device, which must be an ideal one, as it is worn in the ear out of sight for secutins at a time.

A FIRM UNDERFORE.

The market was quiet again, but a firm undertone continues to characterize dealings in the general list, owing to the easy working of the money market, the falling off of gold shipments, and the improvement reported in the earnings of the railways. These influences tend to make many of the professionals who have hitherto occupied a passive position take a more hopeful view of the situation, and purchases for their account are chiefly responsible for the rise in certain stocks. On the other hand, the old bear combination, of which Cammack is the accredited head, continues to feel the market for weak spots, and to-day Distilling and Cattle-Feeding, New England, and Reading were raided with a good deal of success. Distilling and Cattle-Feeding sold down 1% to 33%. THE SPECIALTIES.

83.45. Here's a high novelty—Black Bengaline Silk; plaited Bertha forming collar. Profuse in ribbons. Rich and charming, 420. The Paris model of this cost 444. Our manufacturer thinkshe has even heightened the effect. 16.50. The time is near when it will be as natural to step into a suit-room like ours and walk out with a dress for any occasion as it has already become to buy the ordinary outing suit. We have anticipated you. The suits are ready. DRESSES more charming than you've seen this spring are on view this morning. Paris gave the in-spiration. New York men tailors created these. One at $25.50 is especially charming and, say, $10 less than you can gather the materials and have it duplicated. We stop at nothing short of perfection. Not a stitch is slighted in these garments; no skimping anywhere.

Perfect. Perfect.

But the dress needn't cost $25 to be perfect, and stylish, and tailor-made. Half that sum does wonders. At $7.50, and even $0. you get that chain which the manuta-maker fails to give—and the costume for hardly more than you'd have paid for the making.

Eton Suits at $3.75 and Blazer Suits at $3.95—both all-wool—are reggestions of the possibilities of our suit department. You'll be just to yourself and look; won't you? BOLERO JACKETS are here in full supply for both ladies and misses. Velvet and cloth, prettily CHILDREN'S MUSLIN DRAWERS, tucked, embroidered. $3, $8, between. The best REFRIGERATOR is

"Atter a full discussion the conclusion was unanimously reached that everything pertaining to the ceremonies in New Orleans should be left to the discretion of General Glynn and those as occiated with him, and that the General should have full authority to select the escort to accompany the remains to Richmond.

"For this honor the Louisiana veterans made a most eloquent plea. It was so manifestly a labor of love and I had such unquestioned confidence in their loyalty that I felt that we were indeed fortunate in having such worthy gentlemen to give shape and direction to the ceremonies in the Creecent City. The people of the South and all the friends of President Davis will have occasion to congratulate themselves that we have in New Orleans such worthy and competent men in charge of the arrangements there.

"It was further decided," Mayor Ellyson continued, "that to our own Lee Camp should be confided the privilege and duty of arranging all details of the ceremonies in Richmond, and our people need no assurance that the committee appointed by that camp, of which General Thomas A. Brander is chairman, will be equal to every demand upon them, and will arrange the ceremonies here in a manner becoming the occasion and with credit to themselves.

"General Glyan had not perfected his arrangements when I left New Orleans, but his general idea was that possibly Governor Foster. as the Chief Executive of the State, would be asked to make some temarks at the time of the removal of the remains from the temb of the Army of Northern Virginia, in which they have lain since Docember 11, 1889. They will then be escorted by vaterans, military and civic organizations to the train which will bear the ashes of the great Confederate to this city.

"While in New Orleans," continued the Mayor, "I received dispatches from Governor Jones, of Alacama; Mayor Crommilin, of Monigomery; Governor Northen, of Georgia, and the Mayor and other citizens of Atlanta, all requesting that the remains might be borne through their cities and halts made which would give the people an opportunity to testify their esteem and admiration for Mr. Davis.

"As an evidence of the interest of Governor Jones and Mayor Crommilin, they telegraphed.

After transacting a great deal of routine business the board adjourned.

Grays have always been a well-drilled company and they are now the crack organization of the regiment, and will not be entirely "out of it." Captain C. Gray Bossieux, the popular commander, is one of the fivest drill-masters in the State, and has brought his company almost up to parfection. Under his skilful hands the company is likely to come away with a prize. Only thirty-two men, with the two lieutenants and sergeants and corporals, are allowed to form the company.
